Tucked into a remote valley on the edge of Tibet, the Genyen Mountains have remained hidden from the eyes of the world until just recently. In early October 2006, Dave Anderson, Molly Loomis, Andy Tyson and Sarah Hueniken flew to China with the help of the Shipton Tilman Grant to explore this untouched area. Basing beneath the 600 year old Rengo Monastery, the team accomplished two first ascents and a greater understanding for the local Tibetan culture and history.
